

HARMON SPEAKS ON THE TARIFF

Ohio's Governor Says Wrong Advisers "Got to" Taft

INTERESTS ARE FAVORED

Canadian Reciprocity Agreement Comes in For Criticism in Speech at Boston.

Boston, Sept. 11.—Although rain forced the postponement of the open air barbecue planned for Saturday at the opening of the Democratic campaign for the coming state election, the Democratic city committee quickly readjusted its plans and an enthusiastic gathering of Democrats listened to addresses by prominent members of the party in Faneuil Hall. The chief guest and speaker was Governor Harmon of Ohio, and speeches also were made by Governor Foss of Massachusetts and Mayor John F. Fitzgerald of Boston.

President Taft's attitude toward tariff reform was attacked by Governor Harmon. He said the president's course in vetoing tariff bills passed by the special session of congress indicated that he had been reached by the wrong advisers. Speaking of the president's objections to those bills, he said: "These and other marks of paternity suggest the question whether the vetoes may not have been adopted offspring, like the defense of Adolphine."

Governor Harmon said: "Two years ago the president told the people that if they did not like the Payne-Aldrich-Smoot tariff bill which he had just signed, and was pronouncing the best ever passed, they ought to vote the Democratic ticket. He said this in a pet because the broken promise to reduce tariff taxes was everywhere thrown up to him, but it put the case exactly right. That was the true and logical alternative. There could be no other."

"So at the very next election they put the Democrats in charge of the house, and went as far as they could to do the same with the senate, for they resented the insolent greediness of the special interests which had long controlled the Republican party, and to whom the president had surrendered."

"Something had to be done to appease the voters whom he had failed to frighten by his dreadful suggestion. He had called a special session right after his election to keep his promise for tariff reduction."

Look to Reciprocity.

"He should have called one to obey the plain and emphatic demand of the voters last fall. But, instead, he took him to the old idea of reciprocity, confining it to Canada alone, and putting it on grounds which apply to no other country. He got up an agreement with Canada and called a special session to adopt it."

"What the people had demanded was a general and substantial reduction of the tariff taxes by which they were being oppressed for the enrichment of certain classes. What the president proposed to give them was bread, it is true, and not a stone, but it was a very small crumb. Democrats have always believed in reciprocity with all nations, so far as our need of revenue will permit. They stood by President McKinley when he took up their idea, as Republicans have often done. They were bound to do the like now, for though reciprocity with Canada would not fulfill the obligations to relieve the people, it was not inconsistent with it if put on a proper basis."

Equal Rights and Privileges.

"But in applying the principle of reciprocity, as in everything else, Democrats insist on fair treatment to all on the basis of equal rights and privileges. The agreement which the president had made with Canada applied chiefly to agricultural products. The farmers of the country, being scattered, unorganized and represented, if at all, by men lacking the skill and reach which others bring to bear in their own behalf, got the worst of it, as usual. They were the first to be put outside the pale of 'protection' for their products whose benefits have so long been alluringly held before them. But they were left to go on paying protective prices for what they have to buy, just the same as ever. And to emphasize the discrimination wheat was freed of duty, while flour was not. Live stock and poultry were to come in free, but not meats, logs and lumber, etc., which are used for railroads, telegraphs, paper pulp, etc., were relieved of duty, while shingles, lath, etc., which farmers require, were taxed."

Not Fair, Say Democrats.

"The Democrats did not believe this was fair and they proposed to do what they could to make it so by amending the agreement. They undertook, among

WILL CONSIDER LOT AT ALLEY AND STREET CORNER FOR POSTOFFICE SITE

Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Explains in Letter To Congressman Ashbrook Just What the Department Will Require in This Regard.

The federal government, in asking for proposals on a postoffice building site specified that a corner lot, centrally located, is wanted. The Advocate made inquiry through Congressman W. A. Ashbrook as to whether a lot on the corner of a street and an alley would be considered a corner lot, and is permitted to publish the following letter to Mr. Ashbrook from the Treasury Department:

In response to your inquiry of the 30th ultimo, whether a lot on an alley would be considered a corner lot for the purpose of the new federal building site in Newark, O., I have the honor to advise you that the Department's requirement, as set forth in the advertisement now being published at Newark, is for a lot at the intersection of two STREETS.

As the Act of August 22, 1911, providing for a new site at Newark does not require the site to be bounded on two sides by streets, the Department would, if necessary, consider an offer to sell a lot at the corner of an alley with only one street frontage; but more frontage would be necessary to provide the usual 40 feet of open space for protection from fire in adjacent structures, and the building would not appear to so good advantage as on a corner formed by two streets. It is, therefore, suggested that if any bidder is contemplating the submission of an offer for an alley corner, he give consideration to securing the dedication to the city of a sufficient strip of land to widen the alley and transform the same into a new street. This is the usual plan for rendering an alley corner acceptable. Respectfully,

R. O. BAILEY,
Assistant Secretary.

JEWELER MET DEATH IN GAS EXPLOSION

Columbus, Sept. 11.—Burned to a crisp from the top of his head to his hips in a gas explosion in the basement of his home, at noon Sunday, L. W. Lewis, 50 years old, a South High street jeweler and optician, died at Grant hospital last night.

A daughter, Madeline Lewis, aged 18, was badly burned in extinguishing the flames that enveloped her father, and Mrs. Lewis, who is ill, collapsed and is in a serious condition.

Mr. Lewis went to take a bath and discovered there was no hot water. He went to the basement to light the heater. As he struck the match there was an explosion which shook the house, and enveloped him in fire.

Blinded by the flames, he was staggering about the basement, seeking an exit, when his daughter ran down the stairs. She seized an old mattress and threw it over her father's body as he fell to the floor, after a futile attempt to extinguish the fire with her hands. Mr. Lewis was unrecognizable when carried from the basement.

The accumulation of gas which caused the explosion came from the heater. It was known that it was not in good condition, and for several days there had been a smell of gas in the basement, but the magnitude of the leak was not suspected.

CANDIDATES MUST TELL OF MONEY SPENT

The deputy state supervisors of elections have issued notices to the candidates for nomination at the primaries Sept. 5, advising them of the corrupt practices act, which makes it necessary for every candidate to file with the supervisors a statement of the expenses entailed in their campaign for nomination or election. This includes the defeated candidates as well as those who were successful, and the statement of expenses must be filed with the board of elections not later than Thursday, Sept. 14. This is Thursday of this week, and but little time remains for the candidates to prepare and file their statements.

SEEK TO NOMINATE HUGHES

Insurgent Republicans Plan to Defeat Taft in Convention

LAFOLLETTE TO WITHDRAW

Wisconsin Man at Head of Progressives Who Will Fight Taft to the Last Ditch.

Washington, Sept. 11.—Considerable peevishness marked the reception by Progressive Republicans here today of the boom of Justice Charles E. Hughes for the presidency. The boom was generally characterized as an attempt by the regulars to place the progressives in a position of "playing politics."

The following is a portion of a statement issued today at Progressive headquarters: "No progressive leader who has allied himself with the movement for the control of the 1912 convention so far as is known has declared for the candidacy of Justice Hughes. Some time ago friends of Justice Hughes in New York started a quiet canvass in his behalf, but as is well known the Justice himself opposes this plan in the bud. Progressive Republicans are making a fight to control the next convention as they believe that progressive control means the salvation of the party at the next election."

New York, Sept. 11.—That the so-called progressive wing of the Republican party, which has opened political headquarters in Washington to oppose the renomination of President Taft, will stay in the year concentrate its forces in an effort to bring about the nomination of Charles Evans Hughes, formerly Governor of New York and now Justice of the Supreme court of the United States, as the Republican candidate for the presidency is the information obtained from a trustworthy source. Senator Robert M. La Follette of Wisconsin, it is said, will withdraw from the contest and support Justice Hughes in the national convention.

Progressives, or "insurgents," in the Republican ranks, including Senators and Representatives in Congress, have agreed, it is said, to begin the work of building an effective organization within the next few months in the states supposed to be controlled by the "stand-pat" element of the party.

Before the contest begins for the election of delegates to the national convention, it is said, Senator La Follette will announce his withdrawal from the contest, and states controlled by the progressives will name delegates instructed for Justice Hughes.

Those who have kept informed as to the plans of the opponents of President Taft assert that Justice Hughes is the strongest candidate which the "insurgents" can put forward in an effort to defeat Mr. Taft for a renomination. W. L. Howser, formerly secretary of State for Wisconsin, who is in charge of the progressives' campaign to prevent the renomination of President Taft, is said to be confident that the progressive candidate will receive in the convention the solid delegations from the states of California, Idaho, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Michigan, Minnesota, Nebraska, New Hampshire, North Dakota, Oregon, South Dakota, Washington and Wisconsin.

Aggressive campaigns will be made by the progressives to divide the votes of the delegates chosen in New York, New Jersey, Ohio, Connecticut, Illinois, Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, Colorado and Montana. In all states south of Mason and Dixon's Line determined fights will be made by the progressives to elect delegates favorable to their candidate.

ITALIAN DYNAMITER CHARGED WITH BEING CHIEF OF BLACK HAND BLACK MAILERS IN THE EAST

COSTABILE AND HIS BOMB

The police authorities of New York believe that the arrest of Giuseppe Costabile will solve the mystery surrounding most of the dynamite outrages which have cost many lives in the greater city. Costabile was arrested by central office men carrying a deadly dynamite bomb under his arm. He is said to be the leader of the Italian criminals in the east and is charged with blackmailing many of his countrymen. He is suspected of at least four dynamite outrages. Costabile, if he escapes punishment here on the bomb charge, ing charge, will be deported to Italy to stand trial on the charge of forgery. In the event of his conviction and sentence in New York he probably will be tried in Italy in his absence and if convicted can be taken directly from an American prison to serve his sentence in Italy. G. Para Forni, Italian consul general in New York, came to the aid of the police with the forgery charge against Costabile. It is alleged that for $50 Costabile gave Basilio Michei forged papers releasing him from military service in Italy.

MAINE VOTES TODAY ON PROHIBITION QUESTION

After Sixty Years Experience It is Claimed to be a Failure and the Vote Today is for Its Repeal.

QUESTIONS MAINE IS DECIDING TODAY.

Shall constitution be amended to abrogate and annul 26th amendment prohibiting manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors?
Shall constitution be amended to provide that Augusta is hereby declared to be seat of government of the state?
Shall all nominations of candidates for state and county offices, including United States senator, congressman and member of state legislature hereafter be made at and by primary elections.

Portland, Me., Sept. 11.—Maine, which for ten years more than half a century has been the rock-ribbed stronghold of prohibition, is today voting to decide whether its constitutional edict of 1854, prohibiting the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors with the borders of the Pine Tree State shall be repealed. Early reports from many counties indicate that the anti-prohibitionists will tonight be counted victorious after the most bitter political fight in the history of the state.

The first prohibition law was enacted in Maine in 1851. But in consequence of the failure of enforcement the prohibition amendment was engrafted in the state constitution. Failure of enforcement still continued until the present time and this is 'the cause of the movement for its repeal.

Portland, Me., Sept. 11.—After 60 years of prohibition, the people of Maine will today decide whether the amendment to the state constitution forbidding absolutely the manufacture or sale of intoxicating liquor (order excepted) shall be retained or repealed. The manufacture or sale of liquor in Maine has been contrary to law for 60 years and has been contrary to the constitution since Sept. 8, 1884.

For at least 25 years there has been an ever growing sentiment in the larger centers that "prohibition does not prohibit," and that the law is a source of ceaseless agitation and boundless graft.

At times sheriffs have made honest attempts to enforce the statute literally, and failed in almost every case. The late Sheriff Pearson, elected in the county of Cumberland on a prohibition platform, found the task of making Portland dry impossible in view of the present attitude of the federal government, which permits the sale of liquors only after they have passed beyond the protection of the interstate commerce law by delivery to the consignee.

One of the curious freaks developed by the light is the sight of the Women's Christian Temperance Union working side by side with the Boston liquor dealers for the retention of prohibition.

The Boston mail order liquor dealers have contributed a large sum to the prohibition campaign fund. The no-license advocates were particularly active in the cities yesterday, school children parading the streets carrying banners inscribed

BEATTIE IS GUARDED IN PRISON

Officials Take No Chance on Suicide of Their Prisoner

DENIES SUCH INTENTION

Beattie Says He Has Not Finished Fighting His Case—Complains of Rats.

Richmond, Va., Sept. 11.—A death watch of seven county detectives has been placed on Henry Clay Beattie Jr. in his cell in the old Chesterfield county jail. From the instant of his conviction there has never been an instant when some official was not at his elbow to prevent any act of suicide that he might contemplate.

He enjoyed such unusual freedom of action while his case was on trial—strolls with his relatives and his friends before court convened and during the midday recesses—that the passing of poison to him would have been a very easy matter.

It was mainly feared that some of the young women of the segregated district of Richmond who have flocked to the court house grounds during the trial may have furnished him with this means of cheating the electric chair.

Saturday and Sunday night and for every day and night until Beattie is transferred to the death house at the state prison on Oregon Hill, Chesterfield county, detectives will be immediately guarding him, and two of the staff with shotguns will do sentry duty outside the little old jail.

"If he is convicted he has nerve enough to kill himself before the others do," said Beulah Binford just before her departure from Richmond.

Beattie himself, his roving, expressionless eyes reduced to blank sullenness, scoffed at the notion that he meant to take his own life when a reporter interviewed him in his cell today.

"I'm not a dead man yet," he said bitterly, "and I'm not finished fighting. The verdict was terribly unjust. Just wait till my lawyer gets this case before the supreme court. The verdict was a terrible surprise to me. It pretty nearly took all the courage out of me last night. But I'm going to come out all right, and I'm not thinking for a minute of killing myself. I slept pretty well last night, and I'm chiefly busy today trying to fix my cell up comfortably and setting traps to keep the rats from chasing over my bed."

"Perhaps the court will permit me to be removed back to the Richmond jail while my appeal is pending. I hope so. The attendants here in Chesterfield treat me well, but the rats make my nights horrible. Please don't let it be thought that my courage is gone. Any idea that I am contemplating making a confession is wrong; anybody that says I intend to confess is a liar. I didn't kill my wife."

The youth of the prisoner and the sympathy for his family are such that he is being treated with the greatest leniency in the matter of prison regulations, save only that there is not an instant of privacy accorded him. He was allowed an early morning stroll around the court house lawn.

He sent some cigarettes and chewing tobacco to the negro prisoners, by whom he is saluted as a "remarkable man."

Severe repudiation of Beulah Binford as a girl from whom he vainly tried to detach himself and the direct imputation that the jury judged him more to his indiscretions than the tragedy itself, came today from the lips of Beattie. Any other jury, composed of city folk, with liberal views, would have been more merciful, was his bitter lament.

BEULAH'S LIFE ON FILM OF MOTION PICTURE

New York, Oct. 11.—Beulah Binford's Own Story is the title of the motion pictures through which the girl woman of the Beattie murder case is about to teach a "great moral lesson," according to the promoters. The film was on view for the first time today. The picture tale begins at the time Beulah first eluded her grandmother and began frequenting roller skating rinks and similar resorts. After portraying her life on the streets of Richmond the film carries the story through Savory Fritters—Hard boil two eggs for half an hour, then shell and mash to a fine paste. Mix with an equal quantity of boiled chopped ham and pounded to a paste, add a high seasoning of salt and pepper and the beaten yolk of a raw egg. Cut stale bread in thin slices, put together in sandwiches with a thick filling of the paste, then trim off crusts and cut in pieces two by four inches in size. Beat together two raw eggs and mix with a quarter of a cupful of milk, a pinch of salt and sufficient sifted flour to make a drop batter. Dip each piece in this, then drop into deep, smoking hot fat and fry golden brown. Drain for a moment on soft paper and serve spread on a dish; do not heap on one another.

Baked Ham—To one pint of cold cooked ham add two tablespoonsful of melted butter, a good seasoning of salt, one-quarter of a teaspoonful of white pepper and one cupful and a half of milk, stirring well that there may be no lumps. Beat separately the whites and yolks of four eggs, add the Slot seams were much used a decade ago, but these seams have not been seen for some time until Poiret revived the style in his early autumn tailored creations. This suit is made of snuff brown cheviot serge and jacket and skirt both show very straight lines. The jacket is double breasted and is rather short-waisted in effect. DENISON WILL OPEN WEDNESDAY OF THIS WEEK

Granville, Ohio, September 11.—The first semester of the college year at Denison opens Wednesday. Already more than a hundred students have arrived. The remainder are expected to arrive Tuesday and Wednesday. Wednesday and Thursday have been reserved for registration. The first classes will convene Friday when work will be assigned for the following week. The large number of students who have returned early, points toward a larger enrollment than usual. All available dormitory space was taken early in the summer.

President Hunt returned from his vacation in Canada on Saturday. Dr. Hunt has spent several weeks on a fishing trip and seems much improved in health.

Changes in the faculty will not be very numerous. On account of discontinuing Shepardson preparatory, several of the Shepardson teachers will not return.

A new cement walk has been constructed to replace the old board walk which was badly broken up. The new walk is built on a steady slope without steps, as it was thought that when ice in the winter a steady grading would not be so dangerous as the steps.

The conservatory has received a fresh coat of paint and the dining hall has been repaired. A new addition has been constructed on the south side with a large stairway to the east, giving much larger accommodations.

About the only change in the regular routine will be in the athletic department. It was decided at a meeting of the trustees last spring that instead of the regular entrance fees at athletic games, an appropriation of five dollars per annum will be added to the semester's bill. This change has been a decided benefit to athletics in other schools and the change will be watched with considerable interest at Denison.

PRES. TAFT WILL PLAN HIS TRIP

Beverly, Mass., Sept. 11.—Following the return of Secretary Hillis late this afternoon, he and President Taft will make a final review of the plans for the six weeks' western tour which starts Friday. A speaking plan will be made out for the president, with the view of assigning each audience the topic for discussion most likely to appeal to its interests.

DIEGEL STILL HAS CHANCE TO SQUARE SELF

Columbus, Sept. 11.—Notwithstanding the fact that Prosecuting Turner said today that he expected to hear nothing further from Rodney J. Diegel, who was sentenced to three years in the penitentiary Saturday for complicity in legislative bribery deals it is known that the state is still dangle a suspension of sentence before Diegel provided he comes through with information that will convict others.

It was stated on authority today that John E. Egan, personal attorney for Diegel had made arrangements with Turner whereby Diegel will turn over to the state before next Monday a signed statement.

He says this will not be a confession as his client has nothing to confess, but that it will contain many valuable tips. Diegel could not be located in Columbus today and it was reported that he had gone to some out of the way place to prepare his statement.

I Was Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Waurika, Okla.—"I had female troubles for seven years, was all run down, and so nervous I could not do anything. The doctors treated me for different things but did me no good. I got so bad that I could not sleep day or night. While in this condition I read of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and began its use and was cured."

Wrote to Mrs. Pinkham for advice. In a short time I had gained my average weight and am now strong and well."

Another Grateful Woman

Huntington, Mass.—"I was in a nervous, run down condition and for three years could find no help."

"My doctor knows what helped me and does not say one word against it."

—Mrs. MARY J. J. BATES, Box 134, Huntington, Mass.

Because your case is a difficult one, doctors having done you no good, do not continue to suffer without giving Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. It surely has cured many cases of female ills, such as inflammation, ulceration, displacements, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing-down feeling, and nervous prostration.

This meeting was the largest and most enthusiastic that the association has ever held and brought to Cedar Point many people high in library circles and authorities in their special lines.

ANOTHER PICTURE GONE

Minneapolis, Minn., Sept. 11.—It became known here yesterday that a picture "Die Frau" valued at $1000, was stolen from the woman's parlor at the hotel here last night, under circumstances similar to those surrounding the theft of the Mona Lisa from the art gallery in Paris recently. The picture, done in oil, was painted by C. P. Ream, was owned by Mrs. Simon Kruse, and was one of a valuable art collection gathered in Europe by Mrs. Kruse. It was cut from the frame.

PASTOR WHO TIED KNOT IN TROUBLE

Providence, R. I., Sept. 11.—Rev. Joseph Lambert, who leaped from ecclesiastical obscurity into world-wide notice by officiating at the marriage of Colonel John Jacob Astor and Miss Madeline T. Force at Newport on Saturday, faced a flock of parishioners yesterday who are thoroughly aroused over his action.

When Dr. Lambert arose to deliver his sermon in the Elmwood Temple the local Congregational church Sunday morning, of which he is pastor, he found his followers divided in their opinions of his act.

It is understood he will be summoned before the general conference of the Congregational Church to explain.

When the minister in his sermon, declared his belief that one thing necessary to bring people to church, "is to advertise your church," there was a perceptible stir. "I took the counsel of several ministers in the city (Providence) and I found that they thought generally as I did about the marriage," said Dr. Lambert in an interview last night.

"I see no necessity for any explanation or defense of my action in marrying Colonel Astor. I have been informed today that several members of my church are indignant over the matter. I expected this, but I am gratified to believe that the majority in fact the greater proportion of our members—approve of what I did."

"Sunday a number of the most prominent and influential persons in my congregation came forward voluntarily to congratulate me. When I heard of one or two who opposed my act, four or five in person approved of it. So evidently that proportion thinks I did right."

"In the Congregational church there is no Bishop, or any 'church head,' so to speak, to whom the ministers are held amenable. We are independent as the heads of our respective churches. They may call me to account before the General Conference, yes. That is the only body that can discipline me. But I have no fear of being called there. They will not dare to call me."

"Why? Because 50 per cent of the ministers of this church perform such marriages all the time."

"Digressing abruptly to another phase of the matter, Dr. Lambert said:

"Now as to the fee from Colonel Astor. That is something of an entirely personal matter between Colonel Astor and me."

"But Dr. Lambert as several ministers rejected an offer of $1,000, the public desires to know whether you received even more than this unusual amount?"

"There never was an offer of $1,000 to any one to perform the ceremony," was the surprising rejoinder. "I am sure of this because those who engaged me, and who knew all the facts in the other cases, told me no such offer had ever been made."

"When I was asked to name my fee I refused. I did not want it said afterward that I had acted for any certain sum of money. I said that

BABY DIES OF BURNS FROM SCALDING WATER

After two weeks, death relieved the sufferings of little Faith Harriet Evans, the ten months' old daughter of Dr. and Mrs. W. L. Evans of Hanover. The little's death resulted from being scalded two weeks ago Sunday.

The infant child was sitting in its carriage near a table on which had been placed a bowl of scalding water. Childlike she arose in the carriage and reaching over took hold of the bowl, pulling it over, the water enveloping the tiny body. The child fought a gallant fight, but the odds were too great and succumbed Sunday morning.

Those surviving are the parents and one brother, Jonathan Evans. The funeral services will be held Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock at the home, Rev. Mr. Bowden officiating and burial will be made in the Hanover cemetery.

RESIGNATION OF REV. M. SAFFRAN IS SUBMITTED

Rev. T. G. Saffran, pastor of the St. John's Evangelical church, has handed his resignation as pastor of the church to the board of directors, and it has been accepted. Rev. Mr. Saffran will probably remain in charge until a minister has been secured to take his place. Rev. Mr. Saffran has made no announcement of his intentions for the future.

HEART AND HOME TALKS BY BARBARA BOYD

Politics and Milk.

POLITICS are no longer outside the home. They are very apt to be inside the baby, as Charlotte Perkins Gilman cleverly remarks. And being inside the baby, they certainly become a matter of woman's concern.

The sphere of politics has changed within the last fifty years. And the sphere of woman's work has changed. Consequently, they are overlapping each other. It is an impossibility for women not to be interested in politics today. It isn't a matter of preference or privilege. It is simply a matter of natural law, so to speak, and it works as inevitably as the law of gravitation.

Politics in their workings out have entered the home. Women in their new fields of labor have entered domains affected by politics. As a result, women both in the home and out of it must take into consideration, politics, as a factor in their lives.

This matter of politics and the baby is not mere clever phrase-making. The condition of the milk supplied to all large cities comes under the thumb of politics. Whether it is up to certain healthful requirements or not depends almost altogether upon the laws upon the subject, and upon the inspectors. And both these depend upon politics.

But not only the milk that enters the home and goes inside the baby, but many other things affecting the health of the family depend today upon politics. And so the woman in the home is affected by politics, as she was not fifty years or one hundred years ago, when conditions of living were vastly different. Thus politics today are her concern, if things that vitally affect the home and the family are her concern.

In the field of labor, politics enter with equal importance into her life. The conditions under which she works, the hours of labor, wages even, can all be affected by the ballot box. And she needs to have a voice in saying what all these shall be, if justice is to be done her.

So no longer can women say that politics have nothing to do with her. Many other questions of course enter into this much discussed subject of suffrage for women. But these two phases show that today politics do vitally touch women, both in the home and out. And women should no longer put the matter from them as not worthy of thought. They should give it careful consideration from all sides, and at least have good reasons for deciding for or against it. They can no longer remain indifferent to it on the pretext that it does not concern them. It does touch them more closely than it ever has before.

HEALTH HINT FOR TODAY.

To Escape Appendicitis.
A simple way to prevent appendicitis was recently described by a well known physician. Every night and morning, he advised, go on your knees, bend backward until you sit on your heels, and at the same time bend the upper part of your body forward as far as possible. Do this six to ten times. You may vary the exercise by standing with heels together and toes pointing straight forward and then stooping into a sitting posture until the knees touch the chest. Do this also six or eight times slowly.
The effect is to stir up the intestine in the neighborhood of the vermiform appendix and to keep it free from the obstruction which is the primary cause of appendicitis.

PRESIDENT MAKES ANOTHER MISTAKE

It is difficult to see how President Taft's 13,000 mile swing around the circle can end in anything but a sorry spectacle for himself.
If he tells the people the truth about how he vetoed the honest attempt of both branches of Congress to reduce the high cost of living in this country;
how upon taking office he filled his cabinet with men connected with the law breaking trusts, and how he tried and nearly succeeded in secretly giving Alaska away to the land grabbers,
he will discredit himself.
If Mr. Taft juggles with the facts in the slightest degree, the insurgents,
"swinging" along in his trail, will point out his misrepresentations with such truth and logic that the President will be more discredited than if he had remained at home.
The record of the Taft administration is not one that can be debated with any credit to the President. The President has only himself, with men like Aldrich, Guggenheim, Penrose and Lodge, to whose advice he listened exclusively, to blame.

SHODDY WOOLENS

The wool trust's practice of cheapening the quality of its product while at the same time maintaining prices at the highest level ever known, is drawing the fire of the medical journals all over the country. Through these journals physicians are protesting against the lack of warm and endoring underclothing which causes the spread of injurious diseases. Women and children suffer most from this form of greed. The medical journals are demanding a repeal of the high protective duties—amounting to 100 per cent on the commoner grades of woolens—recognizing in these high duties the source of the evil of which they complain.

TRUST VIOLATION OF THE LAW

On the tenth day of May, 1902, the government filed a petition for an injunction against the beef trust in the federal court at Chicago. On July 5th, 1911, the packers, after having obtained forty-two delays and postpone-ments in the intervening nine years, again pleaded not guilty, and for the forty-third time their trial was postponed, this time until November 20th of this year.

The status of the beef trust prosecution, therefore, is exactly where it was the day the first papers were filed nearly a decade ago. The much-heralded "prosecution" of this gigantic trust—a prosecution which has been directed by one Republican attorney general after another—has amounted to less than nothing.

Every man, woman and child in the country is convinced that the trust operates in violation of the law, both statute and moral, and yet nothing has been accomplished in the alleged campaign to stop these violations except the disbursement of thousands of dollars in fees for special "trust busting" attorneys.

FACTS AND FINANCE

Republican stand-patters are shouting as they have in the past that if the Democrats are successful in the next election the manufacturers of the country will either have to close up their factories or cut down the wages of their employees.

Of course the inference to be drawn from this frantic declaration where the conclusion is not dramatically stated is that such a state of affairs would be due simply and purely to the fact that the Democratic party would be in power.

In 1907 and 1908 the most severe panic that this country has known in many years was experienced. Mills and factories were shut down and banks refused to pay out cash. Over 2,000,000 working men were out of employment and all that time the Republican party was in power in Washington and nearly all the leading states.

The Republican party was also in power in 1873 when widespread financial disaster swept over the country.

If these Republican spellbinders want to learn a few plain facts about finance, there are Democrats who can accommodate them.

BANKER LEAVES PRISON TO FIND HIMSELF WEALTHY

Findlay, O., Sept. 11.—Losing money in the failure of the Denver Bank Company when it closed several years ago, Mrs. A. J. Fish, of this city, yesterday received a check for her losses sustained, which was signed by J. W.
Imboden, former cashier. Imboden has just completed a sentence in the Colorado State Prison and found that a small amount of money invested in a mining company has grown to immense proportions, estimated at $20-000,000. While the bank paid but a small amount of the losses by the de-positors, Imboden has just now taken it upon himself in view of his wealth to send checks in full to cover all losses sustained. Although she has not lived in Denver for several years, Mrs. Fish has never given up hope of getting back the money she lost in the bank. She was talking about the matter to a neighbor today when she was handed a letter containing the check from Imboden.

FRANCE HAS PROPOSAL FROM GERMAN GOVT.

Paris, Sept. 11.—Germany's counter proposals to those submitted by France regarding the Moroccan difficulty have reached Paris. M. De-selves, the foreign minister, after taking cognizance of them, immediately carried the document to Premier Caillaux. The two ministers made an examination of its contents and decided to submit the counter proposals to specialists on Moroccan questions, notably M. Regnault, the French minister to Morocco. When they have formed an opinion the premier will call a meeting of the cabinet, probably Thursday, and lay the whole matter before the ministers for decision.

In accordance with an agreement
made with the German government, no communication was made to the press concerning the text of the document, but it is understood that Germany, in return for the recognition of France's free hand in Morocco, demands economic guarantees which amount to privileges and which would be unacceptable not only to France but to all the other powers, as they would practically suppress commercial equality in Morocco.

J. PIERPONT MORGAN.

He's savage as a job-jub bird that flops around with broken wing;
he never says a friendly word, you never see him dance and sing. He has a dark, forbidding scowl, he has a fierce aggressive jaw; and when he speaks it's in a growl that jars you like a crosscut saw. He looks around upon mankind as though he'd like to slay the race; the thoughts that foster in his mind reflected are upon his face. If money makes a man like that, and makes him hate to sing and dance, I'm glad I'm wearing last year's hat, and have large patches on my pants. In money freezes up the soul, and makes one hate his fellow-man, the rich man's welcome to his roll—I would not be a money fan. When I go humming down the street to buy a volume of "Old Sleuth," the greetings of the friends I meet warm up my heart, restore my youth. I would not give their friendly smiles, the shaking of their kindly hands, for all J. Pierpont's golden piles, and all his railways, yachts and lands.

USE TROOPS TO QUIET THE RESTLESS CHINKS

Pekin, Sept. 11.—The Chinese government is concentrating troops on the borders for the purpose of suppressing the alarming disturbances in the province of Sze Chuen if the provincial forces are insufficient in number or prove disloyal. Sixty Canadian Methodist missionaries are among the Cheng Tu refugees. These in all number about 100, of whom 30 are Americans, and nothing has been heard from them for the last four days. It is believed they are being escorted by Chinese troops in the direction of the Yangtsekiang.
The government has promised to submit to the American legation a comprehensive statement on the flood as soon as the facts are available.

MANY ARE DYING.
Shanghai, Sept. 11.—The Yangtse river is 45 miles wide at places. The great floods stretch over a territory 700 miles in extent. Seventy thousand survivors surround Nanking, where 300 are dying daily. Similarly distressing details are being received from many cities. It is feared the waters will not subside before the middle of October. The floods this year were unusually early and caught the crops
before they had matured.

TROUBLE ON BORDER.
Victoria, B. C., Sept. 11.—The steamer Orteric last night brought news that an armed clash is anticipated between Chinese and Portuguese authorities at Macao over a border dispute.
The trouble is being brought to a climax by the resumption of dredging operations by the Portuguese in the disputed area. The work has been stopped following the dispatch of Chinese troops to the border.

AMUSEMENTS

WHAT THE PRESS AGENT SAYS

The Heart of Chicago.
Lincoln J. Carter's spectacular comedy drama, "The Heart of Chicago," will be seen at the Auditorium Tuesday, Sept. 12. An exciting representation of the great Chicago fire starts the first act with exciting impetus that is carried throughout the entire piece. In this act is seen the city thrown in wild confusion by the great fire, and men, women and children running each other down, carrying their valuables, household goods, etc., to a place of safety. The roof of the Masonic temple is also shown, and the different parts of the great city of Chicago are depicted in realistic scenes.

Honey Boy Minstrels.
In addition to being one of the singing stars of George Evans' Honey Boy Minstrels, Vaughn Comfort will again occupy the interlocutor's chair when the minstrels come to the Auditorium Friday, Sept. 15. The position in the center of the semi-circle of a minstrel first part is by no means an easy one to fill, and Mr.
Comfort is said to be the best interlocutor in the world of minstrelsy.
The end man is dependent upon his co-worker in the center for the success of his jokes, the leader of the orchestra takes his cue from the middle man for the introduction of the music for the sweet singers, the light effects are guided by a sign from the man who presides in the center chair—in fact, every detail of the introductory part of a minstrel entertainment must be at the command of the interlocutor. He reigns supreme in this part of the show.
Vaughn Comfort is particularly fitted for this important chair and has filled it for many years with the largest minstrel organizations in the world.

The Nest Egg.
"The Nest Egg," by Anne Caldwell, which will be seen at the Auditorium theatre soon, has scored one of the biggest hits of any comedy drama presented in recent years. Fully four months it was presented, to crowded houses at the Bijou theatre in New York city, and for three months it played to capacity at the Chicago opera house in Chicago.

Orpheum.
The bill which opened this afternoon at the Orpheum was another well balanced bill. The Four Grovius offer a good act. There are three ladies and a gentleman in the group.
Every member is a real athlete and

CHILDREN'S EYES NEED ATTENTION

Right now when the children are settling down to hard study is the time to take precautions with their eyes. Failure to get lessons promptly and headache are very often attributable to defect in the eyes. Teachers should report the case to the parents and the parents themselves would do well to watch this closely. A stigmatism chart to test the eyes would be a very good thing to have on hand and a wise precaution against serious trouble. Haynes Bros., the opticians, at 8 North Park Place, take equally as good care of the children as of the grown ups. They are known for their reliability for the past sixteen years, and are permanently here. They carry glasses and mountings of all qualities, but always advise the better quality for service. If anything is not satisfactory you get here, Haynes Bros., can always be relied upon to make it right.

What every painter knows

PUT AURORA UP TO ANY PRACTICAL PAINTER.

He can "size it up" by the first few sweeps of the brush.

There's a certain "feel" to a paint that contains just the right amount of pure lead and linseed oil scientifically mixed with the proper inert pigments. This "feel" he quickly recognizes in Aurora. It can be brushed out like pure lead and will cover solidly—doesn't have to be thrown on.

Aurora Mixed Paint

Is made for men who know a good paint. It is practical. Made by men who know how to use paint as well as make it; by men who have studied wood surfaces for years; who stop at no expense to gain a point for paint improvement.

Aurora is a long lasting, good looking paint for general outdoor uses. But we make paints for special uses. Steamboat, Wagon, Carriage, Railroad Paints, each perfectly adapted to the work for which it is designed.

Manufacturers who have products that must be painted; where a certain effect is required within certain cost limits, will do well to turn the problem over to us. Producing surface finishes is our forte; solving problems of paint efficiency—and economy—is our long suit.

SPARTAN STAIN—A practical indoor finish for floors, doors, furniture, woodwork. Works equally well on old work or new.

BURGLARS WERE VERY BUSY ON QUIET SUNDAY

HALF DOZEN DWELLINGS ENTERED IN SOUTH END AND MONEY IS STOLEN.

Thief Stacked Clothing in Window of Snyder Home, But Was Frightened Away in Midst of Work.

Wholesale housebreaking was attempted last night on First and Valandigham streets, the thieves getting property valued at about $30 and gaining entrance to six dwellings which have been reported to the police. Of these burglaries, the most successful was accomplished at the home of Mr. W. B. Melick, at 38 North First street.

At about 7 o'clock Sunday night, the Melick family went to church, leaving the house locked. On returning an hour later one door was found standing open. Upon investigation it was found that two pocketbooks lying on the sideboard had been emptied, the contents, amounting to about $3, being stolen. The pocketbooks remained in exactly the same position. It was later discovered that a pane had been removed from the kitchen window, by means of which the latch was turned and the window raised.

When Miss Watkins, who rooms at the house, returned, she found that a purse, which she had placed under a stand cover in a bed room upstairs, had been removed and $13 taken, but the purse had been returned to the same position in which she had placed it. A valuable gold stickpin was also missing. Nothing has been found concerning the thieves, except that one of the neighbors saw a woman on the porch of the Melick residence shortly after 7 o'clock.

Five other jobs were reported later in the evening. On South First street several small articles were stolen, but nothing of value, the thieves gaining entrance to the home of Mary Prior. On Valandigham street later in the evening, a man attempted to enter the Glenn residence by removing a screen, but awakened Miss Glenn, who was sleeping just inside the window. She called to Wm. Glenn, who came down with a shotgun and saw a man leaving the house across the street. He aroused the Snyder family, who occupy the house, and it was discovered that the thief had torn the screen and entered the kitchen. He had gathered several pocketbooks, a suit of clothes and a clean shirt, and had undoubtedly been frightened away. Nothing was missed. The clothing was piled in the window through which the thief had entered the house.

$100 is Stolen.

Frank Pete, an Italian, who rooms in a boarding house on Seroco street lost $100 which he says was stolen from a trunk in his room last Saturday. In a hearing before the mayor this morning nothing developed and the case was dismissed. The landlord and one of the boarders were suspected, but no evidence could be found against them.

STARTS FLIGHT FROM PACIFIC TO ATLANTIC

San Francisco, Sept. 11.—Aviator Fowler is scheduled to make his start from here today in the first attempt ever made to fly from the Pacific to the Atlantic Coast. He plans to arrive at Reno, Nev., about 6 o'clock this evening. If he is able to maintain the schedule he has set for himself he will arrive in New York Oct.

6. In his flight Fowler will be confronted with greater difficulties than than other aviator has encountered in America. If he gets no farther than Nevada, he will have accomplished a remarkable feat, that of crossing the Sierra Nevada. Resting places are few and far between, making the flight unusually perilous. Fowler must fly at least 8000 feet over mountains and canyons.

UNDERTAKERS STARVE WHEN DEATHS ARE FEW

Pittsburg, Penn., Sept. 11.—There is a dearth of deaths in Allegheny county, and as a result over 300 undertakers are out of employment.

"People are simply not dying," said one undertaker last night. "People are under eating. High prices of food have forced them to partake of food lightly. Physicians giving out the statement that when the eating question is solved through economy less illness prevails while if over abundance is the rule, sickness and death is general."

Two score undertakers have left Pittsburg within the past week for other cities in the hope of finding employment. Three of Pittsburg's oldest undertakers were forced out of business just recently owing to the dearth.

An old time physician declares that the people of Pittsburg and vicinity are exercising more precaution in caring for their health and are thus prolonging their lives. The official mortality record shows the lowest death rate that has prevailed in any other previous month in the history of Pittsburg.

MAY DIE OF SPIDER BITES.

Evansville, Ind., Sept. 11.—Spider bites may cause the death of Meredith B. Meader, 65 years old, a veteran of the civil war. His system has been poisoned and physicians say there is little hope of his recovery.

Cleveland, Sept. 11.—Thousands of militiamen, veterans of the civil war and all of the mail carriers of the city participated in the parade and memorial in honor of Commodore Oliver Hazard Perry here yesterday, the occasion being the 98th anniversary of the battle of Lake Erie.

Following the parade there was a gathering in Wade Park before the Perry monument, where several prominent local men delivered patriotic addresses.

HEALTH DEPT. INVESTIGATES TYPHUS CASES

SEVENTEEN CASES UNDER OBSERVATION, MOST OF THEM ALONG ONE MILK ROUTE.

Health Officer Takes Prompt Action When Inquiry Develops Suspicious Circumstances in the Milk Supply.

Resulting from a number of cases of typhoid fever which have been reported to the Board of Health during the past week, the department today is deep in the work of conducting a rigid investigation to trace the source of the typhus germs. And after making tests the water supply was exempted as a probable cause and the milk supply was next brought under inspection, with the result that one milk route, that of Chas. Meeks of Park avenue, fell under suspicion and the supply ordered discontinued until a more complete investigation could be made.

It seems that all the latest cases reported have been along the route supplied from this source and the dairy was ordered closed and the following written order was issued by the health department Saturday night:

"Pending investigation of milk supplies of a certain route for infectious disease, the health officer of Newark orders that the sale of milk and milk products and delivery of same to anyone be stopped at once by Charles Meeks and his contractors and supply people and dairies, and such others as may have furnished Meeks milk on or between July 10 and this date (Sept. 9.) Effective at once to all concerned until further orders. Any acceptance of milk and milk products will be and is under these orders."

Up to Aug. 27 there had been less typhoid fever in Newark than at any time during the past three years, but immediately after that reports were made of several cases and these were rapidly followed by others. Investigation was made of these cases, but they might have resulted from many sources, and on Sept. 3 Mrs. Charles Meeks, who had a slight fever, was removed to the City Hospital. She remained there but three days, all signs disappearing, when on Friday Mr. Meeks was taken to the City Hospital with fever.

The Health Department now has under consideration and looked for investigation 17 cases, some of which are diagnosed as certain cases of typhoid and several of which show symptoms, all of which are along the route supplied by Mr. Meeks.

During the past three days Dr. W. H. Knauss and his assistants have worked patiently and conscientiously trying to trace the cause, and have found that the city water is entirely exempt. However, it is thought that probably the well water supply of some of the dairymen is infected, and Dr. Knauss has sent for a specialist, F. G. Boudreau, M. D., of Cleveland, who is expected in the city today to trace down the direct cause of the epidemic.

A complete fumigation has been made of the homes and every precaution has been taken to prevent the spread of the disease, and within the next few days the direct source of the disease will be found and the Health Department will deal with it vigorously in order to wipe out any infection.

CALLED HOME BY FATHER'S DEATH

A. J. Kennedy of the Newark Sanitarium has been called to his home in Nashville, Tenn., by the death of his father. Mr. Kennedy's father succumbed to a disease but recently familiar to physicians, that of tetanus, which affects the nerves. Mr. Kennedy was accompanied to his home by his sister Mrs. Moffet of Mt. Vernon.

C. H. D. MEN WANT MORE PAY

Cincinnati, Sept. 11.—Representatives of the 700 track employees of the Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton railroad, employed in Cincinnati, called on General Superintendent Frank H. Allred today to make demands for an increase in pay. The men declare they will strike if the concessions are not granted. They want a ten per cent increase in wages and a 10-hour day the year round. At present track employees on branch lines get 14 1-2 cents an hour and on the main line 15 1-2 cents an hour. The strike, if it occurs, will include switchmen, bridgemen and other employees whose duty it is to keep the track open. The conference with Allred was without result, and negotiations were immediately opened with General Manager Loree.

Mother Loon Teaching Her Children to Dive

Daddy's Bedtime Story

When the Little Loons Learn To Swim

"DID you ever see a bird teaching its babies to swim?" asked daddy. Goldie, Evelyn's pet canary, was taking what seemed to be a good night bath before flying up on her sleeping perch.

"Do birds swim—any birds except ducks?" asked Jack.

"Well, I suppose the loon is not much more of a bird than the duck, but the loon is a better swimmer than the duck and can dive to beat any water fowl you can think of."

"Frankie Green can dive off the pier, and I guess he can beat any boy around here," said Jack.

"Well, daddy went on, 'You can tell Frankie Green about the loon, for I am sure the loon can beat Frankie without half trying.'

"You see, loons get their living in the water. They catch fish by diving under the water after them. Their homes are up in the north in Canada and around Hudson bay. In the winter when it is dreadfully cold they sometimes come as far south as the northern part of the United States. They are about as large as a goose and are checkered black and white. They have a white collar and white breast, and the head and neck are colored, sometimes violet and green."

"A friend of mine who went up to the lakes to fish told me of watching two loons teach their young ones to swim and dive. The father loon helps the mother care for the young. When they are ready to teach their children to swim he takes one out into the water on his back, and she takes the other out. My friend says it was amusing to see the youngsters cling to the parent birds' backs and at first refuse to go under the water. First the parents dived under the water to show the babies how. Fearful, the little ones would not follow, but floated about on the surface. Then the mother very firmly caught hold of her charge and dived under the water with it. Then the father bird took his little one down. After that the young ones went under themselves. In a few days they could dive beautifully."

"That might be a good way to teach Evelyn to swim," suggested Jack.

"Never mind, I'm afraid I couldn't reward Evelyn as the loons did their children. When the swimming lesson was over father loon dived down under water for about five minutes. He came up with a nice fish speared on his bill. He gave a flit of his head as he came up to the youngsters, and they caught the fish and made a meal of it, while he went down after another for his wife, for Mr. Loon is a most polite as well as a clever bird."

BLAIR TRUCK MADE GOOD RUN

The Blair direct drive auto truck was given a stiff endurance run Sunday to test it as a truck suitable for long drives with a heavy load. The test was satisfactory in every respect, and the manufacturers are elated over the good record made.

The truck, with a load of 2 1/2 tons, left Newark at 3:30 o'clock and reached Columbus in 2 1/2 hours, a run of nearly forty miles. According to those who were passengers on the truck, the trip was made practically without changing from the high speed. The route taken was that which follows the electric road into Columbus.

Those in the party were F. M. Blair, W. C. Wells and Fred Pearce. The men went at once to the home of J. B. McCune who entertained the party at dinner at Kaiser Hall.

While in Columbus, the truck attracted considerable attention from two manufacturers, expressed themselves as interested in the truck and made inquiries with a view of possible purchase in the future.

The truck will be in Columbus several days and will then proceed to Hamilton, Dayton and Cincinnati.

A meeting of the directors of the Newark Machine Company and the Blair Auto Truck Company will be held possibly tomorrow when the two companies will be consolidated and reorganized with a view of specializing in the manufacture of the truck.

RHEUMATISM

THAT COMET.

There is a little comet, almost overhead these evenings, a few degrees north of Cygnus or the Northern Cross. It is not worth looking for, as it cannot be told from a star of the fourth or fifth magnitude. It has a little tail but it cannot be seen unless through a large telescope. It is 45,000,000 miles from the earth and is traveling at the rate of 11 miles a second. It will probably not come much nearer and will finally disappear in the latter part of October, never to be seen again.

A comet is always interesting because it is a stranger, and the inquiry quickly is, where did it come from, why did it come, where is it going, what is it, anyway? When a person spies one of these pilgrims of the night coming down on a visit to our sun, his thoughts run out along its endless path among the stars and he wonders what it is thinking about and what it intends to do and what its strange, wild life is for, anyway. If one Messiah to Be King of Kings and Lord of Lords.

THE DAY OF CHRIST AT HAND.

Pastor Russell Says That Great Day Will Witness the Overthrow of Sin and Death—Satan Shall Be Bound, and Divine Justice Will Be Executed in the Earth—A Sermon to Bible Students—A Great Crowd as Usual.

Mt. Lake Park, Md., Sept. 10th.—The International Bible Students Association has been holding a Convention here for more than a week; many able speakers have been heard. Higher criticism is at a discount amongst these Bible Students. They claim that the internal harmonies of the Bible attest its Divine authenticity. Amongst these earnest students are many who at one time were infidels. They profess greater faith than ever in the Bible as the result of reading Pastor Russell's books, to which many of them were led through his sermons.

Pastor Russell was the principal speaker at the Convention today. He arrived during the week, and is being entertained some distance from the Park, at the Weber mansion. Hundreds visit him every evening. Pastor Russell spoke twice today in the large Auditorium. He delivered one of his discourses from the text, "In the last days the Mountain of the Lord's House shall be established in the top of the mountains, * * * and all people shall flow unto it" (Isaiah 11, 2). He said in part:

"Our text tells of great events in the 'last days.' It would be a mistake, however, to suppose that these words imply the end of time or the end of the world, in the ordinary sense. The Bible declares that 'the earth abideth forever,' and it tells of the wonderful blessings of Restoration, when the Lord's footstool shall blossom as the rose—Paradise restored. All this is to come in the 'last days.'

The Jews understood that the seven days of the week, six of labor and the seventh of rest, were typical of seven greater days of a thousand years each, in harmony with this thought, some of them tell us that we are living in the Friday night of the world's history—which means that the great Sabbath of Rest is about to begin—the thousand years of Messiah's reign (the Jewish day beginning in the evening).

The New Testament writers seem to have had the same thought. Thus our Lord declared, 'My Word shall judge you in the Last Day.' Similarly, Martha declared her faith in the resurrection of her brother, saying, 'I know that he shall rise again in the resurrection, at the Last Day'—the Millennium Day, the Day of Christ—the great Day which will witness the overthrow of sin and death and the uplifting of humanity. Of that great Day we read, 'In His Day shall the righteous flourish, and evil-doers shall be cut off.' This Seventh Day is frequently spoken of as 'that Day,' as indicating the time when Divine power will no longer permit the reign of sin amongst men, but Messiah's Kingdom will actively intervene. The overthrow of Satan, sin and all unrighteousness will then take place. It is during this Day that Messiah will put down all things opposed to righteousness: 'The last enemy that shall be destroyed is death.'

Throughout that glorious Day the resurrection process will be in operation; mankind will be rising out of its meanness, sin, sickness and death, back to all that was lost in Eden and redeemed by way of the Cross. In the end of these days, or 'after these days,' of the reign of sin, God promises to make a New Covenant with the House of Israel and with the House of Judah, through which they shall be uplifted; and the blessing will flow from them to all nations (Jeremiah xxxi, 31). It will be after these days also that 'God will pour out His Spirit upon all flesh,' as says the Prophet Joel (Joel ii, 28).

Our text is to be considered from this standpoint. In the end of these days, in the promised Day of Messiah, the Mountain of the Lord's House shall be established, fixed, in the very top of the mountains—above all other kingdoms. This is in full accord with the entire tenor of the Scriptures. A mountain symbolizes a kingdom; and as the Prophet declares, God's Kingdom will be the highest Mountain; it will be over the top of all other kingdoms. It will be established or fixed permanently above all others.

Messiah, the great King, with His Elect Bride and associate with Him, will exercise His Divine power; Satan shall be bound for a thousand years, and sin will no longer be permitted. From the invisible plane of glory and majesty, Justice will be executed in the earth; every good word, thought and deed will be rewarded, and every evil thought, word and deed will be punished—swiftly—surely. Perhaps paralysis of the tongue will be the means by which evil speaking, false words and deceptions will be punished. Perhaps paralysis of the arm or finger will be the means employed to stop the crime. Certain it is that 'Nothing shall hurt or destroy in all God's holy Kingdom' thus established. How speedily the world will then learn righteousness! Now it doubts the very existence of God, and declares that if He exists He pays little or no heed to wrong-doers. 'Now the wicked flourish; yea, they that tempt God are even exalted,' as the Scriptures declare. But the New Day will change all this. Messiah 'will lay righteousness to the line and justice to the plummet, and the hail [Truth] shall sweep away the refuge of lies, misrepresentations, misunderstandings' (Isaiah xxviii, 17, 18). 'The blind shall see out of obscurity, and the deaf ears shall be unstopped.' 'The knowledge of the glory of the Lord shall fill the whole earth,' until 'None shall need say to his neighbor, 'Know the Lord,' for all shall know Him.'

Gravitation Reversed
The present tendency is to gravitate downward, but our text tells of a reversal of this order. All nations shall then flow or gravitate upward—toward the righteous Kingdom of Messiah: 'Many people shall say, 'Let us go up.' 'The Kingdom, in its original establishment, will be Israelitish—Abraham, Isaac and Jacob and all the Prophets will be made Princes in all the earth' (Psalm xiv, 10).

The Jews, naturally, will rally to their standard and begin to recognize the fulfillment of the prophecies of old. Other nationalities will begin slowly to realize the import of the great, New Jewish Dispensation. Their ideas and ideals will be antagonistic for a time. Gradually they will see the Restitution blessings coming to Israel, in harmony with the Divine arrangements of the Kingdom. Then, as our context declares, 'Many people will say, 'Come, let us go up to the Mountain of the Lord, to the House of the God of Jacob; He will teach us [as well as the Jews] His ways and we [as well as they] will learn to walk in His paths.'

Both Spiritual and Natural Israel are in the picture. Mt. Zion is the higher, the Spiritual Jerusalem; the lower, the earthly. The Law shall go forth from Mt. Zion [Spiritual Zion, the Messiah—Head and Body—Bridegroom and Bride]—while the Word of the Lord [the directing and instructing] will go forth from Jerusalem [the Patriarchal Princes, who will represent the Kingdom].

Judging Among the Gentiles
The context tells us that the new King, Messiah, will judge amongst the nations—amongst all the peoples. It will be a general judgment first, an individual one subsequently. The national judgments will mean calamities upon the nations. The demonstrations of the great dreadnaughts and great armies will prove that they are not to be the peacemakers of earth. On the contrary, those trusting in these devices will suffer most severely. All must learn the lesson that Messiah's Kingdom comes not by human might nor power, but is the Lord's institution, in His own appointed time.

The lesson will be so thoroughly learned in that Day of Trouble that war will forever cease. The Prophet David tells that the mighty army of the Lord, through Messiah's Kingdom, will work havoc with present institutions. Then 'He will make wars to cease unto the ends of the earth.' Our context tells us that thereafter 'They shall beat their swords into plowshares and their spears into pruning hooks; nation shall not lift up sword against nation, neither shall they learn war any more.' Even Boys' Brigades, etc., thereafter will be at a discount. Human energy and activity will find better employment in conquering self, sin-sickness and death.

Hiding in the Rocks
The description here given by the Prophet Isaiah of the Day with which this Gospel Age will end, the great Day when Messiah's Kingdom begins, agrees very closely with a description of the same given in the book of Revelation. 'Isaiah tells us that idolatry to gold and silver shall be brought to an end, and the great trouble of that Day will cause many to hide themselves in the rocks, for fear of the Lord and for the glory of His Majesty (Isaiah ii, 10, 11). 'The lofty looks of man shall be humbled, and their haughtiness shall be bowed down and the Lord alone shall be exalted in that Day' (vs. 9-11).

The idols He shall utterly abolish, and those who worship them 'shall go into the rocks and into the caves of the earth, for fear of the Lord and for the glory of His Majesty, when He ariseth to shake terribly the earth' (vs. 18-21).

The same picture is set before us in Revelation vi, 15-17. Here the great ones of earth are represented as calling upon the mountains to fall on them and to hide them from the presence of the Lord. The thought is to fall over us, hide us, protect us. The Prophet Malachi asks, 'Who shall abide in the great Day of the Lord?' 'Who shall be able to stand?'

Let us construct a picture before our minds. Let us suppose the vast oceans, constituting three-fourths of the earth's surface, to represent the masses of mankind unsettled, unattached, without property, with little hope or prospect, with illimitable longings, but no power to satisfy them—'without God and without hope in the world.' Let us consider the land behind and before us to represent society, fixed, established, desirous of peace, having something which it does not wish to lose, which it does not wish the 'sea' class to wash away.

As in the sea we find shallows and mighty depths, so on the land we find low places, higher places and mountain peaks, and each of these represents a certain degree of prosperity or adversity. The mountain heights would represent the princes of society, merchant princes, bankers, as well as political powers. As from time immemorial there has been a conflict between the land and the sea, the latter, in storms, violently attacking the former and seeking to capture it, so between the two classes here represented—the 'sea' class, helpless and without property, is envious of the 'earth' class, those who, under the present order, seize and possess the chief blessings.

The mountains, the rocks of society [social institutions, lodges, financial institutions, capitalists, combinations, national treaties, etc.], will all fall in that great Day of trial and judging and testing; the shaking and overthrow of every human institution is in full accord with the Divine requirements of Justice, Righteousness.

Who Shall Then Stand?
My dear hearers, where is your treasure? Where is your security? This long-foretold Day of the Lord is nigh. The great time of Trouble impends, a time 'such as was not since there was a nation' (Daniel xii, 1). If our treasures are upon the earth, and our confidence rests in human organizations, the time is near when we may be crawling into these holes, these social and financial protective arrangements, calling upon them to cover us, protect us, but there will be no protection possible. The Apostle declares respecting that Day that everything that can be shaken will be shaken—everything that is not in full alignment with the Divine standards will go down. In the language of the Scripture, we should set our affections on things above, not on earthly things. The Master counsels further, 'Lay up for yourselves treasure in heaven, where neither moth nor rust doth corrupt, and where thieves do not break through and steal.'

If we have been careless in this matter in the past, it is high time for us to invest what little we have of time, influence, talent and money in the service of the King of kings—in laying up treasure in heaven, in promoting the interests of the great Kingdom wherein we trust, and of which we hope soon to be members, sharers with our dear Redeemer.

We are not counseling foolishness—the throwing away of money, of time and influence. On the contrary, we counsel the spirit of a sound mind, that every hour, every talent, every penny be used, not as our own, but as the Lord's; not according to our selfish desires, but according to the Divine will, so far as we are able to understand it, that we may glorify God in our bodies and spirits which are His.

Every talent we possess is that much of our stewardship, of which we must shortly give account. The Lord's servants, the consecrated, Spirit-Begotten, will be called to account before that great Day of trouble upon the world. Jesus said, 'Watch ye, that ye may be accounted worthy to escape all those things coming upon the earth, and to stand before the Son of Man.' Our watching is in respect to our talents, our faithfulness in their use.

In one of His parables the Lord tells us that on His return to establish His Kingdom, before beginning to deal with the world at all, He will deal with His servants. The inquiry will be, 'How have we used the pounds and talents given to us by our Master? All those who use their opportunities faithfully will be accounted worthy of a share in the Kingdom, as illustrated in the parable, 'Enter ye into the joys of your Lord.' 'You have been faithful over a few things, I will make you ruler over many things.' 'Have dominion over two cities.' 'Five cities,' etc.

There will, indeed, be some of God's people who will pass through the trouble with the world. Those who are too fearful of the weight of the cross will bury their talent in the earth. They will fail to have their portion with the Lord and His saints; few in the Kingdom and, instead, will have their portion with the hypocrites, in the great trouble of that Day.

The Catastrophe Cannot Be Averted
It is impossible for us, or for any one, to avert the great catastrophe which is surely bearing down upon the world. The Lord's people are to have nothing whatever to do with bringing about the great catastrophe, any more than had the Prophets, whose words we are using. It is for us to make our own 'calling and election sure,' and as far as possible to send out the Divine Message in no uncertain tones to all of God's people, that each and all may be found faithful in the use of their pounds and talents—redeeming each possible loss of opportunities, or, as the Apostle says, 'Redeeming the time, because the days are evil' and unfavorable.

Our day witnesses the world gone pleasure-mad—'Lovers of pleasure more than lovers of God.' The spirit of the world surrounds us, threatens to engulf us and destroy our spirituality. There never was a greater need than now for the soldiers of the cross to arise and 'put on the whole armour of God,' to 'watch and pray,' and fight a good fight against their own weaknesses and against the darts and snares of the Adversary.

Many dear Christians realize that we are living in strange times, but do not realize that we are in the transition period between the reign of sin, sickness and death, and the reign of Messiah's Kingdom of righteousness and light. Let each one whose eyes of understanding have opened to a better appreciation of God's great Book be on the alert to 'show forth the praises of Him who hath called us out of darkness into His marvelous light.'

in the Democratic Congress. In calling the special session the president had announced that he would not permit any general revision of the tariff. This was what he promised in 1908, and that downward, because he knew, as everybody else did, that the resources of every family in the land were suffering depreciations under license in form of law at the hands of favored interests.

Gross and Notorious.
'These were so gross and notorious in some cases, such as woolen and cotton goods, that when he approved the bill which not only kept up these depreciations, but made them worse, and when he went about the country exonerating it by forced praise, he condemned the schedules which covered these, though he signed them with the rest. Every Democrat would have been ashamed of the men chosen to represent his party in Congress if they had failed to amend those schedules so as to relieve the people from these impositions, especially at a time of depression in business and enforced economy in the household. And the party would have been justly discredited with citizens everywhere as not a dependable agency to conduct the government for the benefit of the people according to their expressed will and purpose.

'It was feared by many of its friends and hoped by all its foes that the party would fail to meet the situation. It had long lacked the training which responsibility gives. Many of its representatives lacked experience. It was unused to leadership in the actual conduct of public business.

'It was believed to be subject to incurable dissensions arising from personal jealousies and ambitions, and from local interests. With a senate supposed and a president known to be adverse, and actual accomplishment thus thought to be hopeless, the belief prevailed in many quarters that the Democratic house would proceed to gorge itself with the places and perquisites created by the extravagance of its predecessors, and consume the time for which the public pays in idleness and declamation.

'But the faint-hearted and evil-minded were alike confounded. The Democratic majority promptly showed the country that they are an efficient and responsible body. Under a most capable speaker and leader they wisely changed the rules, abolished numberless offices, reduced the expenses of the body by several hundred thousand dollars, and then proceeded to execute their commission from the voters by passing bills to accomplish the reforms I have mentioned.

Vetoed Them All.
'Then enough Republicans to help pass these bills were found in the senate, and they came to the president. He vetoed them all. He has appointed a commission, and declares that nothing shall be done until he gets its report. But he needed no commission when he promised a general reduction before his election, nor when he called the special session to keep the promise, nor when he signed the bill that broke the promise, nor when he confessed that the woolen and cotton goods duties were too high, nor when he made the agreement with Canada.

'His position is simply that those who by the trickery of tariff making have secured a license to impose exorbitant prices on the American people shall go on doing it, in spite of the action of both houses of Congress, until such men who are not responsible to the people, nor even experts, shall advise him how much these favors ought to be reduced and how to do it scientifically. He admits they are too high on these absolute and universal necessities of life, but he fears these bills may have cut them too much. All the men, women and children in the land must continue to suffer an admitted wrong which affects health and comfort, than run any risk of causing too much shrinkage in profits made excessive by law. The people must not even have the benefit of the doubt.

Worse Than Ignorance.
'If the present tariff charges' had been fixed merely without proper knowledge and skill it could well be said that an 'unscientific' remedy is good enough for an unscientific wrong, especially when those who apply the remedy have the advantage of dealing with actual results, while those who did the wrong acted only on conjecture. But the Payne-Aldrich-Smoot law had a far worse taint than ignorance. And it is a reflection on our plan of government to say that the flagrant iniquity of that law shall go on doing good sense, common knowledge and honest purpose and a responsible authority shall decide how the duly chosen law-making body may deal with them.

'I believe in the veto power. But it is to be employed only on the clear and positive conviction of the executive that the public interest so requires. He is allowed 10 days to consider and decide. If he remains in doubt at the end of that time action on his part is dispensed with and the judgment of the legislative body becomes effective without it. For the president to defeat the action of Congress, especially when it follows the plain mandate of the country, merely because he is not certain about it himself, and wants to wait for somebody else to advise him, is a new and perilous departure from the wise design of the constitution.

Scientific Basis.
'What is the scientific basis the president is waiting for? It is the difference in the cost of production between this and other countries. Yet even on that theory the bills he vetoed were proper and just, because it was shown on the floors of Congress by actual census figures that the present duties exceeded the entire wage paid to foreign workers. And after American manufacturers are put on an equality with their competitors by having the difference in cost of production made up to them, on what theory are they to be guaranteed a reasonable profit basis, as the president declares, by a charge on the public, when all other citizens have to run their chances of profit? Is the president's commission also to tell him what a reasonable profit is? And is that to be the limit, or, having been assured a reasonable profit by law, is everybody to be free to make as much more out of the public as he can? If not, is the president to find a way to prevent this? What a wilderness of folly!

Reached by Wrong Adversers.
'Surely the wrong advisers must have reached our president again, for the reductions made by these bills were carefully considered for months by well-informed and intelligent men, with wide knowledge and long experience on the subject, who had only the public interest in view and acted with the utmost care and regard for existing conditions.

'The need of relief being admitted some relief was certainly better than none at all, when it was demonstrated that the only objection that could fairly be made was that the reductions in duties were too slight, rather than too heavy, and had to be made to secure passage in the senate.

'We have had tariff commissions before, but none of them ever accomplished anything but delay. And if ever time is money it certainly is to the beneficiaries of a favor tariff. The consumers of the country were entitled to at least partial immediate relief. This Congress gave and the president took away. His tenderness was all for the few who profit by the present excessive rates. He hardened his heart to the multitude who are compelled to pay the exorbitant prices which include them.

Plainly Makeweights.
'The objections made to the form and details of these bills were plainly mere makeweights. One of them was that articles are classified by the uses to which they are put or suitable. Another was that raw or partly manufactured material was placed on the free list, while the completed product was not. Yet repeated instances were pointed out in the debates in Congress where exactly the same was done in the tariff bill the president signed, and in other tariff bills. Methods which were good enough in imposing unjust and excessive taxes to enrich particular individuals will not do when it comes to reducing them in the general interest. If these defects in the present tariff did not suffice to prevent his signing it, how can the same defects justify his vetoes of the recent bills, in which they are only minor and exceptional? These benefits proposed were great and general. The errors, if any, were at the worst conjectural, slight and of narrow operation. It is another instance of concern for the wrong persons.

'These and other marks of paternity suggest the question whether the vetoes may not have been adopted off-spring, like the defense of Ballinger.

Language of the Stump.
'But, not content with calling the majority in Congress unscientific, incompetent and ignorant, though in his vetoes he did so in parliamentary phrase, the president now, in public speeches, charges them with insincerity, employing the ruder language of the stump. He says they were 'playing politics.'

'This gives me a fellow feeling for Messrs. Clark and Underwood and their associates. For when I set about the reforms in Ohio which I was selected to secure, I found myself confronted by a general assembly Republican in both branches, which undertook to discredit my administration in every way it could. It withered or defeated measures proposed to prevent further grafting with the treasury funds, to limit taxation and distribute it fairly, to reduce expense and secure effective conduct of the public business. When I persisted in urging measures for these and other worthy objects, though I knew the fixed purpose to make my efforts fruitless, I too, was charged with 'playing politics,' which means pursuing a course from some unworthy motive; and any motive except to promote the general welfare is unworthy in a public officer.

Commission Renewed.
'But at the first opportunity the voters of the state most emphatically declared that they 'play politics' who thwart efforts for reforms and not they who make such efforts, however hopeless of immediate success. So my commission was renewed and associates of my own party were given me by whose aid the benefits before prevented, and many others, were secured for our citizens. Taxation was equalized, and the amount to be collected reduced and limited. Useless offices were abolished. The continuance of wastefulness and graft was prevented. The purity of the ballot was secured, and corrupt election practices forbidden. The selection of judges by rings and bosses was abolished. The choice of federal senators by the people was provided for. The primary election laws were extended. Better and more economical management of public institutions was secured. Compensation for all injured workmen was provided from a fund created by joint contributions of employers and employees, and administered by the state. Various measures for the protection of working men and women were enacted. A fair and effective public utilities bill was passed and put in operation. Approval of the federal tax system was given. The deposits of public funds were required to be awarded by open competition resulting in a large gain in interest.

Made to Join Hands.
'And in every part of the public service efficiency and economy were made to join hands through a revival, by the above and other reforms, of the spirit of public usefulness required for the success of popular government. The members of the obstructive Republican legislature were, according to press reports, in constant touch with the national administration during both sessions. The speaker and leaders frequently went to Washington and conferred with the president. Half the cabinet were sent to take part in the campaign last fall where the direct issue was, who had been 'playing polities, and who trying to serve the public interests. Yet in dispatches inspired in Washington the claim is now set up that this great record of accomplishment by a Democratic administration is due to those who had to be twice defeated at the polls to secure it. 'Even from Washington,' says one of these, after reciting with praise what has been done, 'where it was realized by the Republican chieftain that the Democrats would claim most of the credit for the passage of such legislation, Republicans in the legislature were urged and advised to support proposed laws which in their operation would prove to be a benefit to the great masses of the people.'

Little Influence.
'This chieftain must have little influence with his followers in Ohio, because with now and then an honorable exception in either house, they continue to oppose a solid front against the entire program of reforms for which the Democratic administration was contending with its slender majorities in senate and house. Surely, trying to take credit from those who have earned it is the worst form of 'playing politics.'

'Let our friends in Congress take heart, for if what they have done is 'playing politics,' the people will cry, 'Go on with the game.'

'Take the tariff out of politics, say some. The president missed the best opportunity there ever was to do this by signing bills to reform most of the laws which were passed by a Democratic house and a Republican senate obeying the command of a numerous popular majority to which men of both parties contributed.

'But the tariff will never be taken out of politics so long as it is to be prostituted for private gain and those who get or wish to get the gain can control the organization of one of the great parties. For the voters will always use the other party for their defense and the conflict will go on until it is settled whether privileged classes or the people shall rule, for those rule a country in whose behalf the taxing power is employed.'

Governor Harmon called at the Statehouse to pay his respects to Governor Eugene W. Briggs and spent half an hour in conversation with the Marquette executive. Governor Harmon said that politics was not discussed.

CAREFUL PLANS FOR SUICIDE ALL GO WRONG

Ocean Springs, Miss., Sept. 11.—George Beal planned suicide upon the most complete lines, neglecting no detail. Today he is in jail, bound over to the grand jury. Beal was stopping at the Beach Hotel, Friday he went to see Judge Illing, warden of Evergreen cemetery, and purchased a lot. Then he journeyed to Biloxi, visited the various undertakers, inspected their caskets, asked if there was anything better in stock, bought one that suited him and accompanied it back here. The rest of Friday afternoon and Saturday morning he passed in writing 20 letters. Among others was one to Dr. Robert Bland, proprietor of the hotel, begging his pardon for committing suicide in his place. Then he locked himself in his room. All would have gone to his desire had he not taken too much of the drug with which he meant to kill himself. As a result, when his room was broken into late in the afternoon he was violently ill but far from dead. "Circumstances made it necessary to kill myself," was his only defense.

They fled through the blacksmith shop and regained their places among the men working in the dining room and kitchen before they could be captured.

FOUR YOUTHS HELD IN BURGLARY CASES

Marion, Sept. 11.—Four boys, each under 17, believed by the police to be members of a gang that has committed at least 15 burglaries in the farming community around Marion, and also many burglaries in the city, were captured last night by several Marion county farmers whose homes have been robbed. Carl Buerche and Thurman Huntman were captured three miles south of the city. George Parker and Albert McWhorton were captured several miles east of the city.

The boys had large sums of money in their possession, with knives, watches, rings, pocketbooks and other articles sufficient to connect them with at least 25 burglaries, and the police believe that a gang of about 10 of these boys has been committing burglaries with great regularity during the past 10 months. All four boys arrested are members of good families of this city.

FAINTED WHILE CLEANING BATH TUB AND DIES

Columbus, Sept. 11.—Lying face downward in a bathtub filled with water, the body of Mrs. Helen Steele Wolfe, aged 32, wife of Arthur J. Wolfe, was found by her husband, chief engineer and purchasing agent of the Scioto Valley Traction Company, Sunday evening. Coroner Hanes said she had been dead two hours. She was seen alive by her brother-in-law, Gregg S. Wolfe, at 3 o'clock. The drowning is supposed to have been accidental.

From the fact that a rough brush, used only for cleaning the tub, and a piece of soap were found in the water under her, and that she was fully clothed, it is supposed Mrs. Wolfe, who had been indisposed for several days, fainted while cleaning the tub and fell into it. Though the hot water faucet was open, the body was not scalded.

Their four-year-old daughter, an only child, was asleep in a room adjoining the bathroom.

GIRL'S BODY IS FOUND IN LAKE

Hendersonville, N. C., Sept. 11.—The finding of the bruised and scarred body of 17-year-old Myrtle Hawkins in a lake near here Sunday is expected to result in revealing one of the most sensational tragedies in the history of the state.

On the face and head were deep bruises, and while the coroner's verdict was "Death by unknown means," it is stated there is evidence the girl died before her body got into the lake. She had been missing since Thursday, when she left home to do some shopping. When she did not return a search was made, but apparently she had simply dropped out of sight.

No trace of her was found until Sunday morning when three small boys found the body. Lake Oseola, where the find was made, fronts Lakeview Inn, and is traversed day and night by hundreds of vehicles. The girl was a daughter of W. H. Hawkins, a jeweler of Hendersonville.

Daniel Willard, president of the B. & O. road, is mentioned as Mellen's possible successor. A NEWARK WOMAN FIGHTS TO KEEP $300,000 LEGACY

Cincinnati, Sept. 11.—A battle for a gold mine in Colorado was begun in the probate court here when Walter Canfield, president of the Cincinnati Business Investment Co. sought to prevent the probate of his father's will. The father, George Canfield, who died July 29, aged 79, owned an equity valued at approximately $300,000 in a gold mine at Bowler, Col.

The fight over the will grows out of the fact that Miss Mary Leonard of Newark, Ohio, who was Canfield's housekeeper, is named sole beneficiary in a will dated October 19, 1910. Relatives of Canfield, including his widow, who lives in Dubuque, Ia., claim that the will was secured by improper influence.

The Miss Mary Leonard mentioned in the Cincinnati dispatch is a daughter of Mrs. Julia A. Leonard, who keeps a boarding house at 62 South Fourth street. When asked for a confirmation of the report that her daughter was the person alluded to in the Cincinnati message Mrs. Leonard refused to commit herself, and denied any knowledge of the matter. Persistent questioning finally brought the admission that Mary Leonard was her daughter, and that she had been the housekeeper for George Canfield. More than this Mrs. Leonard would not say, except that her daughter was not at home at present.

Edward Leonard, a brother of the woman mentioned, stated that his sister was in Cincinnati and that for some time she had kept house for a wealthy man named Canfield who had interests in a Colorado gold mine.

SHOOTING ENDS FATALITY.

Kansas City, Set. 11.—Henry C. Gumbel Jr., a wealthy business man of Wichita, Kas., and son of a local capitalist, who was shot here Saturday by Robert F. Curtiss, a cigar salesman, died Sunday. THEY BREATHE EASY NOW. Beverly, Mass., Sept. 11.—There is joy among the crew of the Mayflower, the presidential yacht, because of President Taft's long land trip, beginning Friday.

"He's so heavy," said one of the crew today, "everybody is scared to death he will capsize the Mayflower's launch every time he gets in it."

WOMAN SHOT BY PHYSICIAN

Terre Haute, Sept. 11.—Late Saturday night Dr. O. L. Spigler, a prominent physician, shot and probably fatally wounded Mrs. Lillian McCullough, when she tried to shoot him while in his office, using a revolver which she took from a drawer. Her shot missed him and he instantly fired at her with a revolver he took from his pocket. The bullet struck her in the forehead.

She had called at his office and quarreled with him as she had done frequently in the last four years. On Wednesday night $1200 was taken from his office safe, which he had carelessly left unlocked. This incident and the fact that there is a new baby at his home were the occasions for the quarrel.

Dr. Spigler says that for two years he has been trying to get free from her attentions, and that a year ago he gave her $2000 on her pledge to cease annoying him, but that for three weeks she was again forcing herself upon him.

Mrs. McCullough is the wife of Sergeant of Police John McCullough, to whom she was married 12 years ago.

Catania, Sicily, Sept. 11.—Mt. Etna is showing a revival of activity. Two new craters have opened about 8000 feet above sea level. Frequent earthquake shocks occurred at intervals of from five to ten minutes and can be felt in all the surrounding villages, where the inhabitants are greatly alarmed.

TAKES TREATMENT TO SAVE SIGHT OF BURNED EYE

E. J. Sutton of Manning street left Monday for Columbus, where he will enter Grant Hospital to take treatment to safeguard the sight of his right eye, which has become greatly weakened since his accident at the golf shaft factory five weeks ago. Mr. Sutton has given up hope of saving the left eye, which was injured at that time. He was assisting the workmen in the factory in whitewashing the walls of the plant, when the hose of the whitewash sprayer which they were using burst, and a quantity of the lime mixture flew into his eye. The eye was so badly burned that it is thought the sight was destroyed. He was in the hospital for a week or more and submitted to two operations, but got little relief. He now hopes to save the sight of the right eye. His many friends in Newark hope that he will return completely recovered from the unfortunate accident.
